LIGHT, MORE LIGHT!

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir.—Allow me space once more in your valuable paper for an explanation of the Liberal Principles which I spoke of in my last letter, and to tell of their birth place. A few days ago I received four letters without any signatures, written in the Swedish language and mailed at Wetaskiwin. The writers of these anonymous letters seem to think that freedom is to write letters containing ridicule, mockery, false hood and threats, and to use the mails for delivery against the law. One of the writers warns me of "dark nights," if I do not stop "to hold England over Sweden," etc. Let me say that the persons in that clique cannot claim to be Swedes or to represent the Swedes east or west of Wetaskiwin or in Canada or Sweden. Prof. Myers says "The most noteworthy characteristic of the Northmen is the readiness with which they lay aside their own manners, habits, ideas and institutions and adopt those of the country in which they establish them selves."

Mr. Thomas, in his book, Sweden and the Swedes, says "the Swedes are constantly manifesting their kindness in polite and gentle acts. You always feel there is sincerity and honesty and a warm heart back of it all."

Now I may, as a man born in Sweden and having about sixty years experience among the Swedish people say that the above quotations, generally speaking, contain a true prescription of the Swedish people, and the noble deeds of the Swedes inside and outside of Wetaskiwin corroborates the statements. But these letters contradict them and tell of a false oath of allegiance, an unclean conscience, insincerity and hypocricy. Every time I see these men going to the church in my neighborhood, I cannot help thinking of their perverted nature, and their assuming of a false appearance of virtue and religion. They have put a disgrace upon the Swedish name by keeping up a double citizenship and using the mail against the law. They have told me in their letters that they will not give me a job. I do not need it, and they have none to offer.

I know that the political and religious freedom enjoyed under the British flag, is not built on falsehood or imposture. It is built on "natural rights" and the history of the rights can be traced from the Constitution of Clarendon, 1164, the Magna Charta 1215; from Wycliff and John Ball, 1324-84; from the right and equality proclaimed by the people at the Peasants Revolt, 1381, and by the English philosopher John Locke, born 1639, he says "Men being by nature all free, equal and independent." The doctrine of Natural Rights found its way to France and was there proclaimed by Brosseau. He says "All men are born free and politically equal and good." This doctrine was also declared in the Declaration of Rights at Philadelphia Congress in 1774, together with an appeal to the principles of the English Constitution and the several charters and compacts, and also to the "immutable" laws of nature including the right to life, liberty and property. The same doctrine was also promulgated in the French declaration of the Rights of Men, 1791.

History tells us that the formers of the United States Constitution had the experience of the English Constitution to go by with its cabinet, its house of commons and its house of lords. They had also constitutions of the thirteen States to go by, which had been modeled after the English pattern.

In 1783 Franklin published in the French language all the constitutions of the thirteen States and the constitution of the new Republic with notes. These publications with a vast array of historical causes contributed to the form and nature of the French constitution of 1791.

The English constitution is a collective name for the principles of public policy on which the government is based. It embraces statutory law, customs, traditions and precedents; no one document outlines the whole system of government.

England is the birth-place of Natural Rights and Liberal Constitutional government. According to these "immutable laws" and "inalienable rights" the individual, both for his own highest development and the highest welfare of the society and State, in which he lives, should act freely within a certain sphere. The impulse of such action is a universal quality of human nature. Upon that

Methodist Honor Roll Unveiled

A unique service was held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. The event was the unveiling of the Honor Roll of the Methodist church, dedicated as a token of respect to the members and adherents of the church in Wetaskiwin, who have enlisted in His Majesty's service.

The Honor Roll was unveiled by Mr. A. C. Crosby, M.A., who in a brief address eulogized the men who had gone forth to fight the battles of king and country, and stated where and how, each was actively engaged.

On removing the Union Jack which veiled the Honor Roll, the congregat on rose and sang:

"God save our noble men,
Send them safe home again;
God save our men.
Keep them victorious,
Patient and chivalrous,
They are so dear to us,
God save our men.

The singing by the large and well trained choir, who rendered two sacred patriotic anthems, was a treat in itself.

The pastor, Rev. M. L. Wright, gave a patriotic address in which he gave statistics to show that England's policy had been one of conciliation and reconciliation, and that she is a protector of the weaker nations. Canada, as part of the empire, is morally bound to help her. The individual subject who receives is bound to do his bit for the state, or else he is simply a parasite living on the state.

The roll is very artistic in design, and is the work of Mrs. Terry, who donated it to the church. It contains two mottos, the well-known declaration of Nelson, "England expects every man this day to do his duty"; and the declaration of another great Englishman, John Wesley, "The world is my country."

It contains the following names, with space for others who are contemplating enlisting:

Lieut. D. G. Woodcock.
Pte. J. Jackson.
Pte. E. Regan.
Pte. J. Wilson.
Sergt. W. F. Murphy.
Bandsman C. F. Everts.
Bugler Alvin Millin.
Pte. Waldo Morris.

Letters from the Front

France, October 3, '15

"You may be interested to know a little about the conditions through which I am passing. You ask me if I expect to be on active service before Xmas. Well, at the present moment I am sitting in my dug-out in the trenches with a continuous roar of cannon and machine guns going all the time. This is a very exciting life and plays hard on one's nerves. I have already been in the front line of trenches and believe me my initiation was a very warm one We were shelled for about one hour on our way in through the communication trench. It was the most exciting experience I have ever been through. I suppose though in time I will get used to it. We have already had a few casualties in our squadron. We have had to do a lot of heavy marching around to different places but we are getting quite used to it now.

"I met Addie Viau the other day and had a lengthy talk with him about his experiences. The other night I was on a march to a reserve trench and while passing through a very dark lane I met Golden. He was surprised to see me. We did not have a very long conversation, as we had to keep on the move. I also met Tom Parkinson yesterday. He left with the twelve Apostles from Wetaskiwin. Writing material here is at a premium and this is the only sheet I have so I will have to bring this letter to a close. I will be very pleased to receive any letters at any time. I will have to go now to post my 10 o'clock sentries, so Au Revoir.

Yours
W. F. Murphy.

"Your long and interesting letter reached me the other day. Needless to say, I was delighted to hear from you. We are again in the trenches, and it is a relief. As you perhaps know, our "rest" consisted of working parties every night, with a four mile walk to the scene of our labors. At present we are in the support trench and it's a beauty. Fine and deep, with the cosiest little shell proof dug-outs imafinable. My sidekicker and I have a beauty—a regular little "home, sweet home." There is a ruined house near which supplies all our fire-wood, and a splendid well near. Thus we have lots of good cooking material and the government see that we have a fair to medium amount of stuff to cook. This afternoon I had the two greatest luxuries possible—a wash in a tub-full of clean soft rain water, and a drink of pure spring water. You know, all the water out here is treated with chloride of lime for purifying purposes, and, as you can guess, is anything but pleasant to drink. You can imagine how I enjoyed a drink of tasteless water.

"I saw a good joke on one of our trench sign-posts as I was going to the well. It said 'Beware: The U19 is just coming up the trench.' And it was almost possible, too, for we have had quite a few days rain.

"What do you think of the little advance we made the other day? There was sure lots of noise round our little slice of trench. Jack John sons and coal boxes seemed to come from all directions, and there was a 'seasoning' of shrapnel, while the machine guns made lots of music. Fortunately, we didn't have a single casualty in the regiment.

I went over to see George O'Rorke the other day but was informed that he had stayed at the base to take his commission. I thought I recognized the voice that volunteered the information. It was no other than long Tydd of the Strathcona branch. I entered the hut and there was practically the whole of the Edmonton and Strona branch staffs. We had a grand old chew-the-rag for a couple of hours.

"I just wish you could see me write this letter. I'm in my dug-out, lying down flat, with my pack for a desk. Right beside me Hea Archie, trying to sleep, and occasionally grousing good naturedly at the scratching of my pencil.; On one of the supports of the dug-out stand a little portable spirit lamp and on is a messcon of water nearly boiling. I am going to use my last two cubes of 'Oxo' to make a hot drink formyself, the sentry and Archie. Outside the night is dark and wet; the flares we send up make some very weird shadows. Occasionally a German sniper amuses himself by knocking a few pieces of clay off our parapet.

I have a pair of very serviceable impromptu puttees—an old sack wrapped around each leg. The sack once contained cement so I have a semi plaster cast on each leg, which keeps out all kinds of wet and mud and keeps in the heat. We took the cooking of one meal each every day. I had the very best of luck except that once when bringing a tin-box lid of hot steaks to the dug-out (the lid of a biscuit box with a wire handle makes a great frying pan) my foot slipped and the steaks, and myself went sprawling in the mud. For this maladress, I had to do two extra turns of cooking. However, when we'd scraped the mud off the steaks and made sandwiches of them, they went very nicely.

On Tuesday evening I was doing a turn of sentry between midnight and 2 a.m. It was raining hard, as it well could which is saying something for this country and great pieces of earth were falling occasionally from the sides of the trench and splashing in the bottom of the trench It sounded weird and those two hours seemed longer than usual. Any way, about the middle of the watch the orderly officer came along inspecting sentries. Just as he was approaching my post, I brought my bayonet up and yelled the usual challenge. The officer answered the challenge but just as he was speaking, a great chunk of mud fell off the side and splashed at his feet. He got a good scare, and I had a good laugh.

A few minutes ago, one of our boys brought in news that a Sergeant of the O.M.R's was asking for me. I afterwards found out that it was none other than our friend Murphy. His squadron went into the trenches this evening. There's a grand old bombardment going on now from this point—I'd give a dollar to see the expression on Bill's face when some of those German war 'souvenirs' start bursting around. Still, the more experience one gets of enemy's shells, the more he begins to respect them. I remember the first day I got under shell fire, I didn't mind it at all. Now, I've a hearty respect for all things of this nature. The standing joke around here is that the Germans fill their shells with grand pianos, motor cars with the tires taken off and an occasional chain-harrow or so thrown in to make up w'ight.

"The boys told me that the C.M.R's. went into the trenches all spick and span—nicely shaven, clean puttees and all that. I am looking forward to a glimpse of them as they march out in a few days from now. I bet they'll be a chastened bunch.

"The three days since I started to write this letter, this morning we marched to the baths—about, three miles. The morning was frosty and the water was cold, nevertheless we didn't do so badly. You should have heard the howls when someone unexpectedly threw a bucket of cold water over your shoulders.

It is now 2 p.m. Saturday. We start for the trenches at 3. The sun is shining now, so it won't be too bad I believe there are two of the troops of C.M.R.'s coming in with us for breaking in and I anticipate some good fun.

Women who wish to be on the charter members' roll must be present Sunday next or at the latest the Monday evening following in the church parlors.

STANDARDIZING CANADIAN EGGS

From present indications it would appear that one of the most important developments todate in the improvement of the Canadian Produce Association last winter in adopting definite standards for Canadian Eggs.

Hitherto each market and in most markets each dealer had a system of grading peculiar to his own trade This resulted in endless confusion to the consumer and great difficulty was experienced at times on the part of the producer in finding a satisfactory market for his product.

Realizing the importance of having definite standards for all live stock products the live stock branch of the department of agriculture has endeavored by means of pamphlets, placards and other means to give the standards for eggs as much publicity as possible. The co-operation of exhibition associations has also been secured, prominent among which have been that of the Canadian National Exhibition Association at whose exhibition the largest collection of eggs ever brought together in one exhibition of the American continent was displayed. Some 7,000 dozen in all were on exhibition.

At a number of exhibitions where no extensive classes for eggs have been offered, the Live Stock branch has made a display of eggs graded in accordance with the standards and in each instance has supplemented the display with actual demonstrations, in a candling booth specially designed for the purpose, of the way in which eggs of the different grades appear when candled.

In order that the consumers and producers generally may become familiar with the various classes or grades the following explanation is given.

Three general classes for eggs are provided under the standards, viz:—"Fresh gathered", "Storage", and "Cracked and Dirties". Four grades are provided in the first, class, three in the second and two in the third.

The grades in the "Fresh Gathered" class are "Specials" "Extras," "No. 1's" and "No. 2's". The grade "Specials" is omitted from the "Storage" class, and both specials and extras from the class for "Cracked and Dirties".

Producers would do well to more systematically grade their eggs before marketing, and knowing definitely what they have in hand thereby be in a better position to demand a price commensurate with the quality supplied.

HAWKES AGITATION

IS NOT SEX CRUSADE

Referring to the petitions that are being circulated, asking for signatures for the reprieve of Mrs. Jennie Hawkes, Mrs. Murphy remarked to the Bulletin on Monday that this is not sex crusade, as was stated by a contemporary some days ago, but that men as well as women, were interested in the case. It is not yet decided what day the public meeting which is being arranged, will be held as those in charge are waiting to get in touch with Mr. Loggie, of Wetaskiwin, who acted as counsel for Mrs. Hawkes at her trial. He will draw up a petition, about fifty of which will be circulated for signatures.

J. O. Beesley, notary public, of Coronation, who is in charge of the petition at the Young & Kennedy store, already has 1,000 signatures.

His Face Was Covered With Pimples.

Pimples are not a serious trouble, but they are very unsightly.

Pimples are caused wholly by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to purify the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters has made many remarkable cures; the pimples have all disappeared, and a bright, clean, complexion left behind.

Mr. Lennox D. Cooke, Indian Path, N.S., writes: "I am writing you a few lines to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Last winter my face was covered with pimples. I tried different kinds of medicine, and all seemed to fail. I was one day to a friend's house, and there they advised me to use B.B.B., so I purchased two bottles, and before I had them taken I found I was getting better. I got two more, and when they were finished I was completely cured. I find it is a great blood purifier, and I recommend it to all."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past forty years, and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MAKES PERFECT BREAD

HEALTH OF ANIMALS

The recently issued report of the Veterinary Director General, F. Torrance B.A., D.V.B., is a comprehensive document and one worthy of extensive reading. There is no branch of agriculture of more universal importance than the health of food-producing and utility animals. Dr. Torrance goes fully into the activities of his branch. "In some directions," he says, "such as the control of glanders and of mange, much progress has been made; the country has been protected against invasion by diseases foreign to it; additional facts have been brought to light by the members of the branch engaged in scientific research, and there has been a marked advance in the division entrusted with the inspection of meat and canned foods." On the other hand, the Veterinary Director General continues, "I have to report a serious outbreak of dourine in the province of Alberta and continued losses from hog cholera."

Regarding glanders it was found necessary to slaughter only 353 horses in 1914 as compared with 638 in 1913. In combating hog cholera 9,900 hogs were slaughtered in 1914 at a cost of $61,586.44, in compensation. The figures in the latter instance present a formidable aspect, but as Dr. Torrance remarks, "As the hog population of Canada is approximately 8,000,000 the loss of even 10,000 is not high." He adds that the disease rarely breaks out a second time where it has been extirpated, that the feeding of uncooked garbage to hogs continues to be in many cases the cause of initial outbreak, and that the neglect of owners to notify the department of the appearance of the disease is chiefly responsible for its spread. The last remark applies to the inlatory manifestation of all other infectious or contagious diseases. The war against tuberculosis continues with unremitting vigor.

The research and experiments carried on at the different official laboratories is described, and statistical tables given of results, and of the inspection of animals imported and exported and of packing establishments and abattoirs. Import inspections from the United States and Newfoundland in the year ending March 31, 1914, totalled 29,726 horses; 1,641 mules, 14,747 cattle 213,332 sheep, 374 swine, 823 goats, 22 asses, 8 elk and 5 elephants.

Some two dozen contributions of the chiefs of divisions stationed at different points—inspectors, pathologists, biological experts and superintendents of quarantine stations—with a number of illustrations of animals variously affected, combine to make a useful and widely interesting report, which can be had free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WHY SHOULD THE DAY OF FREE PUBLICITY BE DRAWING TO A CLOSE

(From Ridgetown Dominion)

The war and other things have hit the newspapers hard and they are forced to protect themselves. In Bruce County and other sections the price of weekly newspapers has been advanced from $1 to $1.50 per year.

The requests for free publicity owing to the great increase of patriotic, religous and other societies have become so many as to seriously embarass the newspapers, which too long have been giving free notices to all kinds of societies. The question has been asked: Why should the newspapers give away for nothing the space they must sell in order to live? The answer is that all through Ontario newspapers are announcing that all readers, whether for money-making purposes or not, must be paid for. The charge for money-making readers in some cases has been advanced to ten cents per line; non-money making announcements five cents per line. In other cases no distinction is made, both paying the same rate. And fairly speaking why should not anybody or any society pay for the publication of announcements in which they are interested? Why ask the newspapers to bear the cost, for rest assured, type is not set and papers printed without cost to somebody. It is astonishing, too, the difference it makes in the length of the notice sent in whether it is a paid or free notice. When free no attempt is made to condense or shorten up to a bare statement of facts. When a charge is made, however, not an unnecessary word is used and every line that means a cost of five cents is grudgingly written.

The day of free publicity is drawing to a close, and none should object to a small rate per line for what is for their benefit or interest.

A PRISONER OF WAR'S TRIBUTE TO THE RED CROSS

A newspaper correspondent who travelled to England from Holland with a detachment of exchanged prisoners of war has recorded some interesting facts as a result of his conversation with these men.

The wounded prisoners, who are of course all incapacitated by wounds, otherwise they would not be exchanged, arrive in Holland on a German Red Cross train. During their brief stay, prior to their transhipment to England, they receive many attentions from the Dutch Red Cross. "If the people at home" says the writer, "could have seen what I saw in those few hours, Red Cross Funds and prisoners funds would have to refuse money instead of appeal for it."

The prisoners were somewhat critical of German prison life. They complain of the hardships of the German prison camps, the petty tyrannies, the bad and insufficient food Their opinion of the Red Cross was invariably expressed in the formula, "I don't know what we should have done without the Red Cross boxes. We have to thank the Red Cross and its parcels that any of us are here today."

The little three-year-old daughter of Pete Hicks, who was taken from her home near Clover Bar to Royal Alexandra hospital Edmonton, on on Friday evening, suffering from burns, died on Saturday night at 10 o'clock. She was playing near the stove, when a piece of paper caught fire, and the flames spread to her clothing.

THE VICTROLA AND THE COMMUNITY—NO. 4

says: "If people knew the health-giving relief from the strain of modern living which the Victrola gives, we medical men would have less to do and every home would be happier.

"When I can relax for an hour and listen to the excellent music my Victrola provides, I certainly feel the benefit. Violin music always appealed to me so I take especial pleasure in records by Elman, Kreisler or Maud Powell. I think "The Concerto for two violins" on three records by Kreisler and Elman is the finest music I ever heard.

"Expensive?—Not nearly so expensive as one of my bills for mending shattered nerves. It's wonderful what excellent ten-inch, double-sided Victor Records you can get at 90c each.

OTTO BUSCHNER SHOT HIMSELF WHEN CORNERED

Edmonton, Nov. 7.—Otto Buschner the Fort McMurray self-confessed double murderer, shot and killed himself while resisting arrest at three o'clock on Friday afternoon, 15 miles northwest of Lac La Biche. Letters found on Buschner's body, addressed to his wife, contained the confession that he not only murdered McColley the sheriff's bailiff at Fort McMurray but also a man named Reis, who went to the Fort McMurray district from Mannville, east of Edmonton, last year. Buschner afterwards set the shack on fire in an attempt to hide the evidence of his crime. The announcement that the bones of more than one man had been found in the shack was made several days ago, but it was not until the mounted police read the confession of Buschner that the identity of the second man was established.

Buschner first struck north from after a stern seven days' chase, in which twenty trackers, including regular members of the mounted police force, special constables and native Indians were employed.

Buschner first struck north from Fort McMurray, taking to the bush, but afterwards doubled round and headed for the south, in a vain hope of escape. After swimming the ford of the Christina and Clearwater rivers, he lighted a big fire on the south bank and dried himself out, and then continually circled round in the neighborhood of the well-beaten trail, but always edging further south.

It was on Thursday that he crossed the river, and by that time the trackers were hot on his trail. When they came up to him at the A. and G.W. cache, Special constables Shepherd and Morris covered him with their guns and called on him to surrender. His only answer was to take his own thirty-thirty and shoot himself through the head. Two letters addressed to his wife were found on the body, and left no doubt as to his guilt.

Reis, the second victim, is a stonemason by trade, but what relations he had with Buschner and the cause of the dispute that led to his final undoing are matters that have not yet been unravelled.

There had been bad blood between Buschner and McColley, it is said, for over a year. The two were travelling down the river in a scow about a year ago, and came across a barrel of gasoline which had been washed on to the bank from another scow. They took it on board, and upon arriving at Fort McMurray McColley, as the owner of the boat, claimed the whole of the gasoline. Buschner, it is said, had "had it in for him" ever since.

CAMROSE

(From The Canadian)

Miss Maud Anderson, a young lady living north of Bittern Lake, suffered a bruised shoulder when alighting from the passenger train at Bittern Lake yesterday morning. Miss Anderson is a student at the local high school.

At a small but enthusiastic meeting of representative men held at the Canadian Club last Friday evening officers for the Camrose Patriotic League were elected as follows: President, G. P. Smith, MP.P.; vice-president, D. Twomey; secretary, L. R. Jackson; treasurer, James Pike, manager Merchants Bank; organization committee, C. G. Corneille, F. P. Layton and D. Twomey. Mr. Geo. P. Smith explained the meeting was called to arrange preliminaries for the canvassing of the district to raise our portion of the $10,000 asked by the central organization from the Camrose constituency.

On Tuesday night the startling information was telephoned into town that a man had been found dead about four miles from Dorenlee. A shot gun was found near him with an empty cartridge in the barrel, while a ghastly wound in the breast over the heart, bore mute but convincing testimony to the cause of death. The body was found by Gilbert Peterson, whose horses shied at the sight of the corpse lying a few feet off the roadside, near a clump of bushes. He recnized the man as Olaf Tronnes, of Dorenlee, aged 45 years. He at once notified Mr. Tronnes' family, and sent word to the authorities here. A letter was found on his person in the Norwegian language and addressed to his wife. In it he warned his "dear sons and relatives and friends" not to follow in his footsteps. No one, he wrote, was to blame except liquor. The letter concluded: "Goodbye dear Carrie. I have nothing to blame you for. It seems as if I cannot go home. I give my best regards to all my folks and greet my children and grandchildren. I cannot write any more. My hand is too shaky and my eyes are full of tears. May Gods mercy be with me and with us all." The letter was signed O. P. Tronnes. A verdict was returned in accordance with the evidence.

Did you ever hear of a home in which it came amiss, or of one in which it was not conspicuous on the library table or in some one's hands all through the year?

NINE GOOD REASONS

Why you should subscribe to the Canadian Patriotic Fund to the extent of your ability:—

1. You owe to your country, and to the Empire of which you are a part, either to fight yourself or help to make it possible for others to fight in this supreme struggle.

2 As a Canadian you have enjoyed the protection and privileges of British citizenship, and have never yet been called upon in defence of the Empire.

3. The Mother Country has for years, practically borne the burden of your protection alone.

4. In this hour of trial we desire Great Britain to realize that every Canadian is supporting and upholding her cause.

5. The war in which we are engaged is a righteous cause, a struggle for truth, liberty and for the sacredness of Treaties and the given word.

6 If you cannot go yourself, you can make it possible for others to go by guaranteeing that their families will be provided for in their absence.

7. The object of the Canadian Patriotic Fund is to make provision for ALL families of soldiers going from Canada to take part in the present war.

8. Those who have gone to the front are making greater sacrifices than anything we can do at home.

9. An unparalelled crisis in the world's history calls for supreme sacrifice on our part. We must do our duty. WE MUST FIGHT OR PAY.

The Ogden Hotel, presented to the Alberta Red Cross by the Calgary Brewing Co., as a home for wounded soldiers, was formally opened a few days ago by the Lieutenant Governor. The building has 64 rooms and is completely furnished with beds and all accessories. In each room three or four beds can be installed. The building cost the donors $125.000. There are already ten soldiers in the home.

The horse buying commission of the French government bought 54 horses on Saturday at Edmonton at prices ranging from $100 to $150. Probably 150 horses were offered for sale. The buyers were well satisfied with the animals secured. The next point of purchase in Alberta is Olds If satisfactory purchases are made there it is probable that they will arrange to buy at other north Alberta points.

HONESTLY BELIEVED HE WAS GOING INTO CONSUMPTION.

DR. WOOD'S Norway Pine Syrup CURED HIM.

Mr. Frank E. Anthony, 60 Ellen Street, Winnipeg, Man., writes: "Having taken several bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, during the past few weeks, to relieve a chronic cough and general throat trouble, allow me to express my unbounded satisfaction and thanks as to its sterling qualities. A short time ago I became suddenly subject to violent coughing fits at night, and directly after rising in the morning, for about an hour, and found I was gradually losing weight. All my friends cheerfully informed me that I looked as though I were going in consumption, and I honestly believed such was the case. However, after having taken several bottles of Dr. Wood's' I am pleased to relate that the cough has entirely disappeared, along with all the nasty symptoms, and I have since regained the lost weight. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as a sure cure for all those troubled in a like manner."

When you ask for "Dr. Wood's" see that you get what you ask for. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price, 25c and 50c.

quality is our educational system also built. Prof. Horne tays: "Education s the product of the mind's effort. The development of mind or soul is from within out, not from without in. No teacher can educate the youth who will not respond. The teacher may lead the pupil to the founts of learning, but he cannot make him drink. The cause of learning is the pupil himself."

From England came the "Natural Right" to Canada through the United Empire Loyalists, who left the New England states and laid the foundation of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and part of Ontario. The first liberal act was the Quebec Act 1774, and then the Constitutional Act of 1791, giving the people the right to be represented in an assembly elected by themselves.

Our present Constitution bears the date 1867 and is called the "British North America Act." From England has the idea of Liberal Constitutional government been spread all over the world.

I have already mentioned American and French Constitutions, now may I say that the Swedish Constitution drawn up by Hans Hierta 1809, was influenced by the French. Baron Hierta was considered to be a Jacobin. A new Constitution was drawn up after the English pattern of two chambers by Louis de Geer and noted on by the Riksdag, Dec. 7, 1865. From that time on Sweden has had Riksdag men elected by the people with fairly high property acquirements. In Sweden, like in other countries, education and industrial undertakings have gone together with Liberal Constitutional government. The monitorial system of Dr. Bell and Joseph Landcaster was brought to Sweden shortly after 1855. According to that system the older children were used for the instruction of the younger. That method was common when I went to school as a boy. In connection with this English system of schools, came the railways. The first railway in Sweden was built by Englishmen and also that of Troni-Ludvika, 1872, which was built by the Englishman Stanley. The Bessemer steel process, invented by the Englishman Sir Henry Bessemer and patented in England 1855 was introduced into Sweden about forty-five years ago by the establishment of the steel plants at Bongbro and Domnarvet. The first locomotives running in Sweden were made in England. The first steamboat was made by an Englishman, and the lumber industry is influenced by the English "carpenter rule" and not by the "metric rule." So we see that there is no cause for any Swede being ashamed of England.

Now, if we turn to Austria, we will see that 1849 is the date for her first Constitution. Prussia got its first Constitution in 1850, and the present German empire was establish at Versailles in France, 1871; the King of Prussia was elected Emperor on motion of the king of Bavaria. The empire is composed of 25 states and kingdoms, and its population consist of 25,000,000 Catholics, and thirty-five million protestants with five million of other religions, and there are about ten million Germans in Austria, so the Germans are divided equally into Catholics and Protestants In regard to the Lutheran church, Prof. Schadde, Lutheran, says: "there are twenty-four Lutheran state churches, eleven Reformed, seven United, and four Confederated. In Bavaria the Roman Catholic Prince is at the head of the Lutheran church, the same is true of the Catholic king of Saxony, the most protestant land in all Germany.

In the parliament that decides the ecclesiastical budget, there sit and vote upon measures affecting the most vital interests of the state, all sorts and conditions of men, Jews and Infidels, Roman Catholics and Social Democrats, Atheists and Agnostics. The state controls the schools and not the church. The German Lutheran Universities are the birth places of higher criticism. The new German theology, called the "gospel" not "dogmas" have no personal Christ. According to the new German political science, the state is not something arbitrarily made, it does not arise by a contract between men, nor by the power of one or more individuals. The individual is of no account. Compare now the English idea of the state—"the state is a political community organized under the distinct government, recognized and conformed by the people as supreme." A modern writer says it is not what the people have won and then shared with the ruler, but it is what the ruler has inherited or won and shared with the people, that makes the groundworks of the constitutions of the various states and of the empire of Germany. In 1910 at Kaningeberg, the present emperor said: "It was in this spot that my grandfather, in his own right, placed the royal crown of Prussia upon his head and insisting once again that it was bestowed upon him by the grace of God alone and not by parliaments and meetings and decisions of the people. He thus regarded himself as the chosen ruler of heaven. I consider myself such an instrument of heaven, and shall go my way without regard to the views and opinion of the day." In May, 1891 the emperor said, "There is only one master of the nation and that is I." In March, 1895 he said: "Just as I, emperor and ruler, consecrate my life and strength to the service of the nation, so you are pledged—speaking to soldiers—to give your lives to me." (At Brandenburg in 1890 he said "those who try to interfere with my task, I shall crush."

Now, with the knowledge of these facts, "not taken from English papers," neither from German, but from reference and text books, I will frankly say, that warnings for "dark nights" and for not getting a job, cannot scare me to break my oath of allegiance. I will still hold it as a matter of conscience and keep it clean. As a last word I may say that a long known jealousy of a greenhorn preacher and an incitement by his scandalous talks about the English are at the bottom of the shameful deeds of the writers. The proper way would be to recommend such a man to a Reformatory school where he could learn the A. B.C. of common sense and Christian duty.

Respectfully
Gust. Carlson.

WHAT FLAG IS THIS?

Detroit Saturday Night.—"After this war, Canadians will always smile when an American orator describes the stars and stripes as the battle-flag of freedom." It would not be in good taste for a Canadian paper to suggest so, but it may be admitted that the observation is not without interest on this side of the border.

Chinook, Nov. 6.—Three children were burned to death, his wife so severely burned that she is not expected to live more than three days and several personal injuries in addition are the results of a fire which destroyed the two-room shack in which William Henry lived with his family on the homestead about three miles from here in the early hours of Thursday morning.

NELLIE McCLUNG ON THE HAWKES CASE

When Carrie Davis, in Toronto, was acquitted of the crime of murder, it marked an epoch in the extension of the unwritten law to women. Carrie Davis had undoubtedly killed the man, but the jury considered that she had good reason for so doing. She did it in defence of her honor.

Then came the case of the Smith-Bradley shooting at Peace River Crossing, where wounded affection and alienation of his wife was considered sufficient reason for one man's shooting of another. It was a popular verdict, too; an acquittal usually is. The lawyer's dramatic appeal, setting forth the divine rage of the injured husband, makes its appeal to humanity, and the general feeling was that Ralph Smith got what was coming to him.

Now comes the case of Mrs. Jennie Hawkes, who shot and killed the woman who alienated her husband's affection. It seems, from newspaper accounts, to have been a case of great aggravation. Mr. Hawkes brought his new love right into his home and paraded his affection for her before his wife's eyes, threatening her with immediate death if she objected. She had the constant insult of the hated woman's presence. She also overheard the plot to get rid of her, quietly and unobtrusively by putting her in an asylum, and also the setting aside of the other woman's husband, a general clean-up of all obstacles.

She says she did not know what she was doing. Rage and jealousy took possession of her, and her hatred of the other woman drove her to commit the crime.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation of mercy, but the judge decided to act only on the verdict, and use his own judgment as to the mercy, so he condemned her to be hanged. What about that "divine romantic rage" which got Bradley safely through and furnished a motive for his crime which exonerated him from blame. Why does it not come into the case of Jennie Hawkes?

If ever a human being had reason for desperate action, surely she had Her home was invaded, her honor insulted openly, and without the slightest attempt at concealment. There was no law to protect her, for a man may bring his mistress into his home, and so long as he does not show physical cruelty to his wife, she need not appeal to the law. Mental cruelty, outraged affection, or insult does not count. He has to bleed her nose or black her eyes before the law judges him guilty of an offence; although outraged affection, when suffered by a man, is recognized in the unwritten law as a sufficient motive for murder.

Jennie Hawkes took the law into her own hands. Mad with rage, she shot the woman who had broken her heart and violated her home, and the judge says she must die!

The inference is that a woman has no recourse in a case of this kind. She must remember that she is her husband's chattel; and if he decides that he is tired of her and wants another, she must bow in submission No doubt it has been her own fault, she should have made herself more attractive.

The unwritten law, according to this judge, does not apply to women and he proposes to make an example of Jennie Hawkes, and in this sentence of death, he hands a grave and solemn warning to all married women to remember that they must not get notions in their heads that they have any excusive right to their husband's affection, and the power to enforce it. Herein the does one man's bit to secure liberty or rather license for men.

If a man wishes to withdraw his affection from his wife and bestow it on another woman, this judge, at least, has done his best to see that it can be done without any unpleasantness to the man or the second lady. He will not tolerate the wife making a row about it. She has to remember her place.

Now, it will be interesting to see whether the women of Canada will submit quietly to this ruling.

The judge has shown himself to be a chivalrous protector of his own sex I wonder if there isn't a little bit of chivalry among women, too, that will show itself at this time.

I do not think Jennie Hawkes should receive a pardon on the ground that she is a woman. If women commit crimes they should (and do) receive the full penalty, but as a human being she is entitled to a square deal. The man who caused the trouble, who violated his marriage vows; who broke her heart and caused a peaceful woman to become so embittered and enraged as to commit murder, goes free! He killed her soul, but the law takes no notice of that. Mr. Hawkes is quits within the law! Mrs. Hawkes is on the outside and the judge says she must die.—Nellie L. McClung.

FURS FOR ITALIAN SOLDIERS

Mr. De Angelis, the Italian consul at Edmonton, sends forth an urgent request for aid in collecting furs for the Italian troops on active service in high altitudes, who are already suffering from the intense cold of the mountain ranges.

An appeal has been made by Dr. Luigi Verratti, president of the Central committee of aid for the Italian troops on active service, through Lady Aberdeen, to the National council of women of Canada, asking friends and allies in Great Britain, and especially in Canada, to help collect furs for the troops and this work has been cordially endorsed by Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught. Dr. Verratti says "The painful experience of war teaches us that among troops engaged at high altitudes, serious and irreparable injury is caused by frost-bite. In order to reduce as far as possible such suffering and mutilation we must provide those of our soldiers most exposed to the tisk of frost-bite with fur, even of a rough description. All those who have not the chance to offer themselves for the defence of their country, but who with heart and hand help their brothers at the front, and remove their drawbacks and sufferings, may not only enjoy the rest-giving satisfaction of a duty fulfilled, but on the longed-for day of victory they, too, will know the personal joy and the secret pride of having, as it were, helped to fight, and win side by side with the heroes and martyrs who fought for us"

Work parties in Italy are stitching together skins of all kinds to make sleeping bags, etc. The most easily adapted and suitable would naturally be such skins as sheep, goat and lamb skins, but many persons might concur helpfully now in this work by giving old furs, such as coats, skin rugs, travelling or carriage furs of any sort.

Let all men then who have any old furs they can do without, make it a sacred duty to give them with that large hearted generosity which knows no limit.

As a shipment will be made from Edmonton by the Italian Consul, and the Edmonton local Council of Women, on the 20th inst., the need of haste in responding is apparent. All parcels will be forwarded from country points free of charge through the kindness of the Dominion Express Co. and the C.P.R. Kindly send parcels direct to Mr. Felix De Angelis, Italian Consul, Bellamy Block, Edmonton, Alberta.

London, Nov. 1.—Sir John French, reporting from the front, says "The enemy heavily bombarded the area east of Ypres on October 29. With this exception, owing to the wet and misty weather, the artillery on both sides during the last four days has been less active. Mining activity continues on both sides. The returns of casualties for seven German battalions which took part in the Loos fighting as published, show that the losses averaged 80 per cent of the strength of these battalions."

Twenty children, most of them girls, ranging in age from seven to seventeen years lost their lives on Thursday in a fire which destroyed St. John's Parochial school at Peabody, Mass. Many other girls were severely burned.

"FISH OR CUT BAIT"

The following poem in the Walt Mason style, has been dedicated to those who have not yet subscribed to the various Patriotic Funds, and is eloquent in its simplicity:

"We've had a twelve month now of war, but the end's not yet in sight, and the challenge comes to every man to either pay or fight. It's not the time to hum, and haw, or air your hobby whims—it's up to you to see just now that the British Tommy wins. It's not the time to count on gain, or to fatten up your purse, while your brothers fight to rid the world from a war-mad ruler's curse. The man who stays at home just now has goot to foot the bill, and it's just as well to do the thing with a cheery British will. The man who leaves his home, his kin, who leaves behind his all, to put the khaki color on and head his country's call—he's made a sacrifice that is real, and the man who stays at home has got to bear his burden here without a grouch or groan. It's not a day to count the cost or what the tax will be when the empire's fate hangs on the beam in this fight for way to war; our fathers and our Liberty. When strong men march a-sons, to free a blighted Belgium from the curse wrought by the Huns—we've got to play the part of men—it's not the time to shake—we've got the blood of Wellington, of Nelson, and of Drake. The call's gone forth to every man, alike to small and great—if you can't go with the fishermen, you'll have to cut the bait."

NEW CLUBBING OFFER

It will cost the readers of this paper but a trifle more when renewing their subscription to The Times to secure the Farmers Weekly Telegram also. We have been fortunate enough to arrange a clubbing offer with the big Winnipeg weekly that makes it possible for us to announce that Re will give The Wetaskiwin Times and The Farmers Weekly Telegram from now to the end of 1916 for the small amount of $1.25, only 25c more than the usual price of this paper for one year. Many of our readers have already taken advantage of this unprecedented subscription bargain. We would advise our readers to do so while both these publications are available at this very low rate as the offer may be withdrawn at any time.

We further desire to call the attention of those who prefer a daily paper, to our clubbing offer with the Winnipeg Daily Telegram. We have a sensational bargain in this connection as well. Call at the Times office and secure this wonderful clubbing offer.

PERFECTS MACHINE GUN WHICH IS MARVEL OF WAR

Toronto, Nov. 2.—From an out-of-a-job inventor to the creator of a instrument of destruction, the construction of three millions of which for Russia and France by the St. Louis Car Company has just been signed, is the giant stride of Paul Weden, who, up until a few months ago, was employed as a draughtsman in a local automobile factory, and who was discharged because his loyalty was suspected.

His particular invention is a machine gun, which will sell for $100 It will fire 400 shots a minute without any visible effects of heating from rapid fire.

Thomas A. Edison paid a high tribute to the Weden invention and called it one of the marvels of inventive genius displayed since the war began. Weden's former employers were the Russell Motor Car company.

Lieut. Governor Frank S. Bernard special representative of the Dominion, was the central figure at the San Francisco exposition on "Canada Day". He was to plant a tree and receive from the Exposition a commemorative box of jewels such as were used in decorating the Tower of Jewels. Lieut. Governor Bernard was guest of honor at a luncheon tendered by the President and directors of the exposition.

A MINISTER'S INTERESTING DISCOVERY

Rev. A. D. MacLeod, of Harcourt, N.B., in a letter written recently, referred to the remarkable popularity which Zam-Buk enjoys in the homes of the people.

"Really," he writes, "I know of nothing like it! Having charge of an extensive mission over which I travel constantly, I meet with many sick and afflicted people, and I have been amazed at the good Zam-Buk is doing daily. I have learned as an absolute fact that for bad ulcers, old wounds, eczema and skin diseases of all kinds, the healing powers of Zam-Buk are simply marvellous! For the painful ailment, piles, also, it is excellent. If a box of Zam-Buk could be put into every home it would save many a doctor's bill."

Here is disinterested evidence, based on the best and widest experience, of the value of Zam-Buk. In the homes of the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Zam-Buk is the most popular balm. Why? Because in so many cases it has proved a cure when all else has failed. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, ulcers, abscesses, varicose veins, scalp sores, piles, cold sores, cuts, burns, bruises, the eruptions and sores of babies and children, and all skin diseases and injuries. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post-paid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful, cheap imitations, sometimes offered. Send this article to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and 1c. stamp and receive free box by return.

THR CALL OF DUTY.

Mother dear, I can stand it no longer,
Duty's called, but I've turned a deaf ear,
Because I was loave to leave you
Alone, little mother dear.
But a picture—just a poster—haunts me
Of a youth who is shading his eyes,
And he sees how sadly he's needed
In fields 'neath foreign skies.
Duty long hath pointed her finger;
Her chastenings are hard to bear,
And to do my bit I am going—
Do yours, little mother, in prayer.
My suit of tweeds just mocks me
Folks look at me with scorn;
It may be imagination,
But I'll don the uniform.
Just think, when the battles are over,
How badly you'll feel some day,
Had I no share in the victory,
And none of the praise came my way.
I know that your heir is silver,
And your forehead furrowed with care;
I know that your heart is bleeding—
And the pangs are so hard to bear,
But God will take care of you, mother,
When I am far away,
Fighting for British honor,
With heathenish fiends at bay.
I know how your arms are longing
To clasp me and bid me stay—
Duty first, for love always follows
Where duty hath paved the way.
—Edythe Mae Webb.

Our Ottawa Letter

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—Major General Sir Sam Hughes has received a great deal of consideration from persons who might be his critics as a man who "gets things done." With the shell committee under reorganization to squeeze out the profiteers, the equipment and training of the soldiers confessedly in a state of backwardness, and provisions against the return of maimed and disabled heroes months behind the necessities of the case, a question might arise as to how things are done when Sir Sam gets them done, but the public naturally prefers to look at the successes he has made and along certain lines the minister of militia is nothing short of a wonder.

Everybody concedes that in the crested cockatoo work of the Canadian war office the Major General has had few equals and no superiors. Moreover such as were his equals had no such chance as Sir Sam, no world compelling war, no universal catastrophe to serve as a lurid background for the display of their talents.

Wherefore the Major General is easily first in the walk of life—did I say walk, I meant parade—which he has chosen and it is only fair to him to state that he has gone wherever glory waited him and has got it, and brought it back to Canada with him even if he had to stick around a whole summer in London to get it.

That's the kind of a hero Sir Sam is—he will play the soldier whatever happens. It may be necessary to have somebody else tending to business in Ottawa, checking up the sordid details, so to speak, but what of that? The Major General is a creature of light and fire, glittering, splendid, fulgurant, all flame and beauty. I had almost called him a rainbow, but the rainbow is identified with peace so that will not do. Sister Susie may be sewing shirts for soldiers but Sir Sam is a sort of solar spectrum and has a more spectacular job. What one means to say is that a soul so bright and free as his must not become a drudge. Sir Sam must not be sacrificed to routine. As a matter of fact he isn't—Sir Sam looks after that himself. He counts the day lost whose low descending sun, or still more serviceable limelight, does not reveal him in an equestrian attitude. Sir Sam is our man on horseback, though he doesn't believe in conscription and other undemocratic things like that which might disorganize the voters' list.

Engaged though he is in saving the empire Sir Sam has not neglected the Hughes family. In fact he has made a thoroughly good job of it.

There are now three generals in the Hughes family—three, count 'em, three—three—and one in the draw. Presently it will be four of a kind—can you beat it? Of course you cannot. No other family in Canada, or in the United States, in Europe, or for that matter in the whole world has a record like that. Other families may have had three generals in a row, beginning at the grandfather, three generals in tandem, so to speak, but no family that I can remember has ever had three abreast, and when you make it four abreast, as rumor indicates, it has the Roman chariot race beaten to a standstill. In short when we consider the number of generals in the Hughes family it's as if we looked at four Gracchi instead of two. All of them willing to die for their country in a prominent position.

The four Hughes generals—starting at the top and using their first names only are—Major General Sir Sam, Major General John, Brigadier General Garnet and Colonel James L. Colonel James L. is classified as a general because he cannot escape it much longer. He is a leader of the Boy Sprout movement and naturally does a little sprouting on his own account. Though advanced in years James L. has not got past sprouting yet. He still sprouts and sprouts with robustness and vigor. It's on the cards that he will be a general before another twelve months elapse.

The reason for making Brother James a general are numerous, but two only can be given here. One is that it will round out Brother James career and the other is that it will round out the Hughes quota of generals. Four generals will take in all the male members of the Hughes family—at least, all that have been weaned and you can't expect Sir Sam to be making generals of the babies because that is a work for posterity and Sir Sam has his hands full with the claims of the present.

Major General Garnet Hughes has had the meteoric career one would expect of his father's son. He is only thirty-three and a Major General. Many an officer has had to struggle through forty years of grinding service before achieving the honor which this young man wins in a twelve month. Of course there are precedents—genius makes its own precedents. Alexander the Great, had conquered the world and died at Babylon by the time he was thirty-three, and Julius Caesar began at the top just about that age, and Napoleon Bonaparte was well on in the world even sooner and—but why multiply examples. There is General Alderson's word forit that Garnet Hughes is a Major General on his own merits and no one doubts that he speaks the truth for a better, braver, more gallant soldier than Captain Garnet Hughes never went out of Canada. Still the fact that Major General Sir Sam mughes was minister of militia for Canada, did not hinder the young man's career—it is almost safe to say that.

Dr. Michael Clark, M.P., of Red Deer, has a six foot son with the Princess Pats, who by God's mercy, has gone through all the battles unscathed. It was only the other day that they made him a sub-lieutenant—he had to work for it ever harder than a Major General.—H.F. G.

EDMONTON ACCEPTS OFFER OF CHEAP GAS BY BIG MAJORITY

Edmonton, Nov. 8.—The by-law to grant a franchise to the Northern Alberta Natural Gas Development Co the promoters of which are headed by W. H. McLaws, of Calgary, was carried tonight by a majority of nearly three to one, the vote standing: For, 7,097; against, 2,429. The day was stormy but a hard canvas was put up by the gas company and allied interests in Edmonton.

The strongest opposition was put up by the Edmonton coal dealers, and P. J. Dixon, M.P.P., Winnipeg, was brought here to speak against the agreement. It is expected that the company will secure gas from the Viking field, 80 miles east of Edmonton or the Pelican field on the Athabasca river north of Edmonton. both of which they have acquired. The agreement stipulates that gas for power purposes is to be supplied at 15 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and 25 cents for domestic purposes.

Was Not Much of a Believer in Patent Medicines

But Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills Are All Right.

Mrs. Wm. McElwain, Temperance Vale, N.B., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I must say Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are all right. Some years ago I was troubled with smothering spells. In the night I would waken up with my breath all gone and think I never would get it back. I was telling a friend of my trouble, and he advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. He gave me a box, and I had only taken a few of them when I could sleep all night without any trouble. I did not finish the box until some years after when I felt my trouble coming back, so I took the rest of them and they cured me."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been on the market for the past twenty-five years. The testimony of the users should be enough to convince you that what we claim for them is true. H. and N. Pills are 50c per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; at all druggists or dealers, mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir:—We understand that there is coal being sold in Wetaskiwin by other parties than yourselves under the trade name, "Entwistle"

The only coal mined at Entwistle or from the same seam of coal is the Pembina for which you are the sole agents in Wetaskiwin. For anyone else to sell what they call Entwistle coal there is a misrepresentation as they are not in anyway entitled to the use of that name.

LOOKS FOR DOLLAR WHEAT IN THE WEST

Calgary, Nov. 6.—"Wheat is destined to be stronger. I look for dollar wheat in the west."

This was the statement of W. H. Moore, secretary of the Farmers' Co-operative Elevator company, on Saturday morning. Mr. Moore, in his position as secretary of the big Alberta elevator company, is probably as well informed on wheat values as any one in the west.

"Take notice of the quotations on options," Mr. Moore continued. "December and May are now selling at about the same figure in Chicago. On Friday the closing quotations at Chicago were 104¾ for December and 105¼ for May. Usually there is 5 cents difference or thereabouts, between these futures. The fact that they are practically the same at this time leads me to believe that the professionals in the big U.S. pit anticipate a keen demand in the near future. In my opinion the wheat situation is getting to exactly the same status as is was last fall about this time, when, foreseeing a great demand for flour and wheat, the quotations rose to very high levels. I do not look to see the same high prices as prevailed last year because of the great yield, but I do look for dollar wheat in Calgary."

New York, Oct. 30.—What is said to be the fastest speed ever made on a track was attained here yesterday at the Sheepshead Bay speedway, when Ralph de Palma drove his car one lap in 1 min. 2 4-10 seconds, an average of about 114 miles an hour. This time eclipsed the best American record made by Barney Oldfield off 111 miles per hour at Chicago.

Twelve persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a three-story tenement house in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Monday. More bodies are believed to be in the ruins.

TEACHERS TO GIVE DAY'S PAY MONTHLY TO PATRIOTIC FUND

The Northern Alberta Teachers' association, at the closing session of their nineteenth annual convention on Friday afternoon, voted unanimously to contribute to the Patriotic Fund on the basis of one day's pay a month. This was one of the most important items of business of the whole session, and shows the spirit of patriotism and readiness of the teachers as a body to do their bit in the Empire's struggle. On this resolution there was practically no discussion whatever, except as to the manner they were to make their contributions. After a number of resolutions and amendments it was eventually decided that the teachers of the city should not take up the time of the convention in discussing how they would contribute, and they agreed to call a meeting of the Public School Teachers' association of the city and decide upon their particular method of subscription. A resolution was proposed that the donations be deducted out of the pay cheques, but this method stroked much discussion and was the means of having the matter referred to the local teachers' association. The city teachers will form themselves into bodies in their respective towns and will send their contributions to the Patriotic Fund through their treasurer.

A motion to have the rural schools forward their donations to the secretary treasurer of the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association was lost it being pointed out by Superintendent Carpenter that it would not be quite fair to send these contributions to the central organizations, but that the moneys should be applied to the districts in which it is earned. Miss Kate Chegwin took the matter up with a number of the rural teachers, and the majority of them promised to contribute on the basis of one day's pay a month.

Besides these individual donations on the part of the teachers, the Northern Alberta Association passed an unanimous resolution, making a grant of their surplus funds, about $200, to the Patriotic and Red Cross funds.

Another item of business of great interest to members of the association was the annual election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President.—Hon. J. R. Boyle minister of education.

President.—W. A. Stickles.
1st vice-president.—Miss L. Munro.
2nd vice pres.—M. O. Nelson.
3rd vice pres.—Sister Aloysius.

The open season for mink, fisher, martin, otter and muskrats commenced last Monday, November 1st. The open season for the first three named continues up to and including next March, while otter and muskrats may be hunted and trapped to the end of next April. Fur-bearing animals generally, especially muskrats, seem to be more numerous than usual throughout the district this year.

A. L. Eastly, of the Killam News, Lougheed Express and Bawlf Sun, has also acquired the Sedgewick Sentinel, of A. J. Honey, the owner and publisher for the past eight years.
